OBSERVATIONS.

In a trademark suit it has been revealed that the much advertised "Fig Syrup" is mostly senna tea with but a flavor of fig juice in it. Some who have tried it in Honolulu could not bear it on account of the senna flavor. The court in which the suit was heard refused protection to the concoction on the ground that it was an imposition on the public. Its selling price in Honolulu has certainly been exorbitant, even if it was all that has been claimed for it as a medicine.

In one respect the promises of the Kalakaua Monument Association have not been fulfilled. That is the artistic certificates of stock in the memorial which were to be given to all subscribers. Under the adverse circumstances met by the Association, however, subscribers will be content without the certificates when they see the main object accomplished. Although the memorial is not on the ambitious scale at first projected, it is for the means at disposal a creditable production.

If Turkey gets out of her present kettle of fish, through international jealousy, it must only be for a season. That country is beyond mending, and is foredoomed to ending.

One of the inscriptions on a political cartoon in the Chronicle is "Rotten Financial Policy." When was Rotten the Secretary of the Treasury?

An interesting feature of the Planters' Monthly for November is "A Brief Sketch of the Early History and Growth of the Sugar Industry in Hawaii, and Its Present Advantages as a Field for Investment of Capital." It occupies fourteen pages and is signed by H. M. Whitney, editor of the Monthly. Its facts and figures are worth preserving.

There are indications of a turn in the tide of war at Cuba. At last accounts victories were being scored by Spanish troops. A prospect of compromise on the basis of colonial home rule, on the British plan, was also looming up. This would put off Cuban annexation indefinitely, so that Bob Ferguson would have to be content with Canada, Mexico and Hawaii.

Relations between Great Britain and Russia having diminished from a war scare to the vanishing point of alleged bad feeling, now begin to crescendo into the strains of mutual goodwill and common understanding upon great international questions. It would appear, if the latest reports are correct, as if the London papers were not war-whooping by authority when they worked themselves into a frenzy, a few weeks ago, over the going of the Russian fleet to Port Arthur.

In a Tacoma dispatch Adelaide is placed in New South Wales. The same mistake appeared in a legal document filed in the Circuit Court here a few days ago. An atlas is a handy thing to have in the house.

Honolulu has another institution in which it may fairly take pride, by the now established success of the Kilohana Art League.

American co-operation with Great Britain in Turkey would likely postpone the war that Senator Chandler of New Hampshire so eagerly invokes.

Twenty years ago the Keely motor furnished an interesting topic of conversation. Keely could not get his machine taken up then, but he appeared on the scene at intervals since, still insisting on its value but refusing to give away the secret. A few days ago the subject popped up again through the purchase of a small lot of Keely motor stock on the New York exchange.

CHAIN ARMOR IS BULLET PROOF.

Its Use Is Rapidly Increasing Among Officers of the British Army.

Setting aside all talk about protections that are perfectly bullet-proof, I give you my assurance that an immense number of the officers of our army and navy who go on foreign service, especially when one of our "little wars" is expected, provide themselves with certain easily recognized protections. These, mind you, are well-known articles of trade to the service. The commonest and most useful type of these protections consists of fine but beautifully tempered single chains, inclosed in soft leather, which run along the shoulders, down the outer side of the arms and over certain parts of the body. These can either be sewn into a particular tunic or they can be adjusted separately and put on like harness. Take it absolutely that hundreds upon hundreds of sets are sold. The most valuable of all chains, in connection with accoutrements, are those which guard the head, and in cases where the regulation cap or helmet is not sufficiently protected in this way, specially made chains are sewn inside the same and covered by the lining.

Only those who have been in actual conflict know how valuable all the chains mentioned are in minimizing the effect of sword cuts. As regards protection from sword and bullet, the general belief of officers nowadays seems to be in thoroughly tanned leather, and great quantities of tight-fitting leather undertunics are made for officers, the favorite pattern—said to be the invention of the late Sir Richard Burton—being that which forms a not too prominent ridge down the center of the chest. I have heard innumerable stories from officers of bullets which have been diverted in some degree by these leather steel tunics, some of which are lined with woven steel wire. Of course, none of these things are supposed to be an absolute protection, but only a sort of palliative.—London Tid-Bits.

The State of Maine is worth $225,978,716.

This is the property formerly used for the ostrich farm of the late G. Trouseau. The property can be divided into elegant suburban residences.

Andrew Lang, in a recent article on words of comfort, mentions among others: The lady's "yes" to her lover's fond question; the doctor's "it is a boy, sir," to the anxious papa; "not guilty" to the prisoner at the bar; "finis" to the end of a writer's latest book; the physician's "out of danger," and "not out" to a man at the bat.

Timely Topics

The able address by Mrs. Sturtevant-Peet, president of the California Woman's Christian Temperance Union, on the occasion of the annual convention of that body in San Francisco, contained a passage which takes strong ground on the benefits of the bicycle. In speaking of physical culture and the relation of the clothes to the subject, she said:

"All know the value of a strong unhindered body. For this reason the banishment of the corset and restricting bands is a foregone conclusion. * * Dress reform has pressed its claims for forty years, with little progress till the bicycle, that graceful, silent steed of motion, dashes through and bursts open the door of prejudice. This mystic wheel that we meet on every road and street is the mute but telling advocate of dress reform. *"

It has its virtues as well as its charms. It invites, yea, demands, simplicity in dress. It encourages physical exercise and utterly refuses to carry a drunken rider. Unlike the horse, it balks when touched by the hand of inebriety. It inconveniences and discourages the use of cigars and cigarettes to the number of 65,000,000 a year. In short, the wheel is a reformer, and, though, it came not through the virtue of moral conception, we should welcome its presence as we do the advent of every new invention and corporate edict bearing the balm of sobriety, with the promise of stronger and better men and women."

This is a straightforward expression from an able woman who led the California forces of one of the greatest National organizations ever instituted for the uplifting of the race. The dignity and earnestness which characterize her opinion cast into the shades the hallow objections which some physicians have made to the bicycle. Mrs. Peet gives us to understand that in the sole aspect of requiring women to dress sensibly this simple instrument of locomotion has accomplished more at a dash than the preachers on sensible dress for women have been able to bring about in nearly half a century. With so eminent an indorsement as this, even the most timid woman who is not held in what amounts to physical restraint by father, husband or brother from obeying an instinctive impulse to dress rationally and enjoy life and health on a bicycle, may at least console herself with the reflection that her impulse was right and lament that she was born a few years too soon.

In addition to the above Mrs. Peet might have mentioned the saving in labor attained by the patent sprocket attached to the Tribune wheel, which amounts to over 15 per cent, no small desideratum when ladies are concerned.

The Tribune is the wheel par excellence for ladies' use, it has the newest patents and improvements and can be run with 15 per cent less work than any other wheel in existence.
